Dear Colleagues,

Greetings from KMCH College of Pharmacy. It gives us immense pleasure to welcome you all to this two days national conference on preclinical and clinical challenges in drug discovery to be held on 10th & 11th November 2011. Preclinical and clinical studies are becoming more important in the new drug development to establish the safety and efficacy of the investigational new drug.

Regulatory agencies around the world reinforce the safety of the new drug molecule in rodents before they were subjected for human testing. Before thalidomide tragedy drugs were approved with few preliminary toxicity data on rodents. But after this tragedy, new regulations were imposed through good laboratory practice (GLP) to regulate the safety testing of prospective drugs.

The main objective of the conference is to focus on the principles of animal modeling, preclinical pharmacokinetics studies, GLP, BA/BE studies and clinical research.

India is the emerging and recognized country in the Asia Pacific region for the conduct of clinical trials. The number of clinical studies being conducted in India is increasing every year due to the availability of well trained medical fraternity, large population of qualified patients and lower operational cost. Hence in this perspective, the present conference will provide an opportunity to the participants to enrich their knowledge on bioethics, regulatory requirements, medical writing, conduct and documentation of clinical research.

The conference will be an ideal platform to interact with scientists and industrial expertise to acquire knowledge on preclinical and clinical studies.

We are looking forward to meet in person.
